"Monster is a term we reserve for people who cannot be negotiated with. It's almost impossible, if not impossible, to understand their behavior, their motives, their mind. Our regular theory of mind doesn't work on these people."

Monstruo es un término que se reserva para personas con quienes es imposible negociar. Es casi imposible, sino imposible comprender su conducta, sus motivos, su mente. Nuestro sentido común no se puede aplicar a estas personas.

El líder es alguien que conoce el camino, recorre el camino, y muestra a otros el camino.

Integration of leadership training into a problem/case-based learning program for first- and second-year medical students

The evolution of health care systems in response to societal and financial pressures has changed care delivery models, which presents new challenges for physicians. Leadership training is increasingly being recognized as an essential component of medical education training to prepare physicians to meet these needs. Unfortunately, most medical schools do not include leadership training. It has been suggested that a longitudinal and integrated approach to leadership training should be sought.

Design, implementation, and demographic differences of HEAL: a self-report health care leadership instrument

Abstract: The medical community has recognized the importance of leadership skills among its members. While numerous leadership assessment tools exist at present, few are specifically tailored to the unique health care environment. The study team designed a 24-item survey (Healthcare Evaluation & Assessment of Leadership [HEAL]) to measure leadership competency based on the core competencies and core principles of the Duke Healthcare Leadership Model.
