

DECALOGUE FOR RESPONSIBLE TOURISM DURING THE ECLIPSE

1

Protect your health and that of your loved ones.

Stay hydrated, use sunscreen and avoid prolonged exposure to heat, especially in the middle of the day.

2

Protect your eyes.

Do not look directly at the sun without approved eye protection. Use only certified glasses (ISO 12312-2) or solar filters suitable for telescopes and cameras, and check their condition before the eclipse. Check the recommendations here.

3

Plan ahead.

Book your accommodation in good time and organise your trips to avoid traffic congestion, restrictions or unforeseen events on the day of the eclipse.

4

Stay informed and travel prepared.

Check official sources and be aware that some services may be limited or experiencing high demand. Take water, food, medication, sufficient fuel and a mobile phone battery pack

5

Move around safely and sustainably.

Avoid distractions at the wheel during the eclipse. Do not stop on roads or in places that are not marked and always follow the traffic signs. Reduce unnecessary trips and prioritise walking, cycling, public transport or efficient vehicles. Only park in designated areas.

6

Choose your observation site wisely.

Check the recommended points here and avoid unsuitable or dangerous areas. Arrive early and check the weather forecast.

7

Take advantage of your location.

Moving around does not always improve the experience. If you are in the path of totality and have good visibility, your current location may be the best place to observe the eclipse.

8

Reduce the risk of wildfires and protect the natural environment.

In summer, even a small spark can trigger a large-scale wildfire. Spanish regulations prohibit any type of fire in forest areas during this time of year. Respect the flora and fauna, avoid entering protected areas or farmland, reduce your waste, and use resources responsibly.

9

Respect coexistence with the local community and cultural heritage.

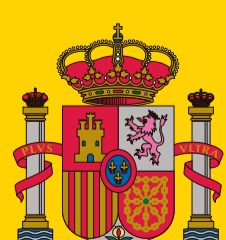

Enjoy the local culture, respecting the local people, their surroundings and customs.

10

Choose local products.

Contribute to the local economy and support local businesses, gastronomy and services.

And above all, enjoy! This is an exceptional astronomical event.
